insanity? I was subpoenaed and on the 13th of this month, in company with Dr. J. J. Knott, of this county, visited Alex Carr in Fulton county jail.

"We had several inmates called in and asked them questions as to the eating and sleeping and notions of Carr. We could learn nothing from them that indicated insanity in Carr. There were no acts described that we could not volunteer. We ascribed that really the pupils of his eyes and turned them to the light. They contracted as was natural.

"When the jailer came in and called him he refused not to hear what was said, but when he motioned to him he got up and walked out of the room."

"You said he wouldn't look at you, doctor?" asked Solicitor Hill.

"He wouldn't look at us. Crazy people usually stare."

Do crazy people object to being called crazy?

"Yes; they try to hide it and usually think the rest of the world is crazy."

"Didn't Carr talk at all, doctor?"

Did Carr Make a Break.

This question brought out a startling place of information.

"Carr told us he was going to die of consumption. We called him in and told him that while we sympathized with him in his trouble there was no use of his feigning insanity. Dr. Baird said he would ask him: "Will you put you up to this?"

"They did," he replied.

"Who did?" asked Dr. Baird.

"White caps," consumption," was all he would say out of him. He talked about this only a short while and we could draw him out no further.

"I think that he is a man of uncultivated mind and beyond that there is nothing he could not assume."

Severely Cross-Examined.

"Doctor, isn't bearing that of an insane man?" asked Dr. Knott.

"I think not, nor his actions. I don't believe he would sit still in his chair like he has done if he were crazy. He would evince some other kind of insanity."

"Doesn't a great moral shock sometimes make a crazy person a lucid interval, doctor?"

Dr. Francis, Mr. Arnold, the epileptic brought back the reason of a number of insane people."

"Wouldn't business trouble bring on a lucid interval, doctor?"

"It might bring it on," answered the doctor.

What effect would confinement have on such a person?"

"Not much, unless he was a man of cultivation."

"Wouldn't Carr take Carr for a crazy man, doctor?"

"As I said before, I do not believe that he is crazy. If Carr was in the condition, he would not be so he would lie down and never get up."

"Wouldn't he come from the jail if the jailers brought him?"

"Yes," supposed Dr. Knott.

"Couldn't a person be sane on all subjects at once?"

No Indication of Monomania.

"Yes," replied Dr. Knott. "But Carr could not tell about what he pretended to be crazy on. He just wouldn't say anything and express no emotion."

Dilatation Doesn't Indicate Insanity.

"That is indicated by the contraction or dilatation of the pupils of the eyes? Isn't it?"

"I do not regard that as a sign of insanity," replied Dr. Knott. "Either might be caused by an inflammation of the membrane."

"Who is the better authority on insanity?" asked Mr. Knott.

"I don't pretend to be an authority."

"Did you ever pretend to be a specialist on insanity?"

"No."

"Were you ever in charge of an asylum?"

"No, and I do not want to be."

"Isn't it true, doctor, that you can't say whether a man is crazy or not by a case that has gone before?"

"Well, we have to go by certain basic principles, and take motives into consideration."

Retorts That Carr Is Sane.

"Now, doctor, without considering this man's possible motive, what would you say about his condition as he is?"

"I don't would think he is not crazy."

"Can you tell what a demented person is like to do next, doctor?"

"I don't believe in it, when it works like this, we can't tell."

"You don't believe in insanity, then?"

"Not in the kind that starts right after getting another man."

"Yes," supposed Taylor against Dr. Knott, and Judge Clark suggested that Mr. Knott need not do this, as he could read to the jury.

TWO ADDITIONAL EXPERTS.

The Afternoon Session Was One of Much Value to the State.

Court convened at 2 o'clock and Dr. J. J. Knott was called to the stand to complete his testimony. Mr. Arnold began the cross-examination.

At what age, doctor, is it that people start frequently become insane?"

"Between the ages of thirty and forty."

"Isn't it twenty and thirty in this country?" persisted Mr. Arnold.

"Perhaps it is," replied the witness, "as conditions are perhaps somewhat different here, but habits differ, too, from the country."

he redirect examination was then begun by Solicitor Hill.

"I would request you to say that when a person is laboring under an insane delusion, doctor, that he likes to talk about it?"

"Yes."

Direct Questions?

"No."

Other questions by both the solicitor and Mr. Arnold failed to bring out any further evidence.

Dr. W. C. Jarnigan Examined Carr.

Dr. W. C. Jarnigan, who accompanied Dr. Knott and Dr. Baird to the jail, stated that he had been practicing physician twenty-two years. Speaking of his visit to the jail, he said:

"I examined Carr in company with Dr. Knott and Dr. Baird, and to the jail."

There tried to get all the information available about Carr—as to his previous surroundings and as to possible heredity of insanity. We examined him physically, mentally and as to nutrition.

We found that his eyes were not abnormally dilated, as to the pupils. Contraction of the pupils is due to the cause of any slight dilatation. The pupils responded readily and normally to light."

made a second examination. Our observations were meager for the obtaining information. We depended on his cellmates and others about the jail. He rarely spoke. Once, in answer to a question, Carr told us he was dying of consumption."

I saw him playing of intelligence on features. So far as my personal opinion is concerned, don't think he is suffering from insanity."

What is your opinion as to his mind?" asked Solicitor Hill.

"I think he is all right," responded Dr. Jarnigan.

You have seen him in the courtroom, doctor. What do you think of his actions?"

"I think they indicate stupidity more than anything else."

Now as to his eyes, doctor. There has been some testimony regarding the dilatation of the pupils. Do you think that you found them perfectly natural?"

"Yes, except as would be natural under circumstances—no abnormality. I do not think on First Column Sixth Page.

EVAN P. HOWELL
Chairman Democratic Executive Committee
Fulton County.

All democrats are urged to give all the aid in their power to the cause and to see that the polls are opened in each district at it is necessary. The names of the managers and clerks of said election will be announced later.

A CHANGE TODAY.

Captain Amos Baker, of the Atlanta
Zouaves, in Charge.

When Judge Calhoun begins work today the police clerk will find a new clerk at his elbow.

Since the days of Jud Glenn's work as police clerk of the city of Atlanta, the position has been most satisfactorily filled by Mr. Ernest Looney, son of Detective Looney, who was the expert and best instructor of Captain Baker, his successor.

The clerk to the police court is one of the most important positions during the terms of Mr. Park Woodward as clerk to the police court, there have been hundreds of applications for the position. At the time Mr. Glenn vacated the place and Mr.
Woodward assumed it, there were a number of applicants for it, but Mr. Woodward selected Mr. Looney.

Captain Baker will be on hand this morning at 10 o'clock to see the manner in which the clerk will handle the matter in which he is interested, and after the close of the afternoon will assume the work himself. That he will make a good clerk all will know him are certain.

IN TIME FOR THE EXPOSITION.

Atlanta's Bonded Warehouse is in sight.

Mr. J. D. Stocker, surveyor of customs for the port of Atlanta, was asked yesterday what, if any, progress is being made in reference to the movement to have a bond-warehouse established in the city in time for use by the exposition exhibitors?
He replied that at present the matter was in statu quo, waiting on the Washington officials. He was very hopeful that such a warehouse would be authorized and established, believing it would be absolutely necessary, not only for the benefit of the exposition, but to accommodate the merchants of the city and vicinity, whose of imported goods is greatly increasing as a result of the recent tariff reduction.

The Story.

The young man who spent the waning days of summer in Atlanta doing his uncle's errands here has been doing others. Mr. H. Y. Snow, was discovered by a handsome and clever young man who claimed to be his nephew some weeks ago. The unknown nephew wired Mr. Snow from Savannah first, saying that he was coming to Atlanta to visit relatives. He claimed to be a son of a brother of Mr. Snow, who lived in Providence, R. I., for a number of years, and whose children were Atlanta Mr. Snow had never seen. He gave the new nephew a warm reception when he arrived here and carried him once to his residence, where he placed his disposal all of the good things of the land. A few days after the nephew revived Mr. Snow and family went out of town for a few days and left their home in charge of the nephew. They gave him full license to have a good time; to use the house and carriage to suit his pleasure.

The young man seems to have done this thing too well. He drove out daily, he made Several bills and had champagne and all the adjuncts of a sportive life in elegant confusion. Before Mr. Snow returned the young man had painted the town red and had left a decidedly carnaline hue behind him. The young man left town very unceremoniously, and without bidding his new goodby.

The matter was placed in the hands of the Atlanta detectives by Mr. Snow, not with a view to having the young man prosecuted, but to have him stopped in his active career. The detectives failed to find the young man, who evidently was very discreet about his departure.

Nothing has been heard of him in Atlanta until last night a special from Jacksonville told about his latest adventure up at that city. The story is as follows:

—Jacksonville, Fla., October 31.—(Special.) Fine, women and song were the agencies which did up Fred L. Snow, of this city. He is a young man of good address, whose name is in Providence, R. I., and he came here only a few months ago, working first for a large firm, the produce commission men, and afterward for Welch & Henry, of Magnolia grocery.

He made his home with the family of Harry B. Scott, in Springfield suburb. Last night when Mr. Scott went home he found at many of his toilet articles were missing, and later it was discovered that a suit of new clothes was gone, and in addition a gold watch worth $75, four gold rings, four pairs of gold sleeve buttons, one set of studs, a lot of clothing, silverware from the dining room, a traveling bag and valuable leather sample case. Snow did not show up, and this morning it was learned that he had the time to go to Savannah or Macon with Scott's bag and he is in his possession. Now his employers are looking for him, and he is being culled from customers, and lots of young men about town have Snow's name on their memorandum books for sums ranging from $5 to $25. He has been living a fast life for the past four months, and a special in Atlanta says that he has a similar record in that city. Snow's father lives in Mobile, Ala., and is said to be a man of good means. Detectives are now on the young man's track. When Snow first came to Jacksonville he was hired up, and several of the young men of his class helped him with his money, which he paid back very promptly when he secured a position. This gave him credit and enabled him to get the money he wanted. He has probably made the town about $1,000.

well-lighted place. They responded to the light in a normal and natural manner. "Have you noticed anything in his conduct that could not be assumed?"

"Nothing."

Cross-Examination by Mr. Arnold.

"You couldn't find out much about his antecedents?"

"Very little."

"Wouldn't his family record as to insanity have a bearing in his case?"

"Yes."

"What per cent of insanity is traceable to heredity, doctor?"

"About three-fourths of all cases."

"Now, doctor, leaving out the motive which might be ascribed in this case, would a man like I have described, a man with such a family record, a man laboring under such delusions, be crazy in your opinion?"

"I would think he was demented."

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hill.

"Now, doctor, Mr. Arnold has put a hypothetical case to you. Now, doctor, suppose a man kills another, a debt, says he has a cause for killing him; refuses to run; is sorry he got his two friends in trouble; would you say about him if he should turn up crazy at an trial?"

"I should think he was all right; these facts would have a great deal to do with the making up of my opinion."

Alex Carr in a Bad Light.

Solicitor Hill called Frank Carroll for the state. He said:

"I know Alex Carr, and have seen his brother, John. They were together the day of the killing. Upon that occasion he said to me: 'Have you seen him?' and I asked him: 'He said King, and said that King was gone; that they were chasing him around the corner. He told me he had seen King and cursed him out, and that King didn't have any grip in him.'"

"What was his appearance?"

"He appeared half drunk. He asked me if I would do a favor for him, and said if I would, he would set me up. He wanted me to tell King that he would lend him the money to pay off the men so they could go back to Villa Rica. I told him I had troubles of my own."

Damaging to Carr and Bailey.

Patrolman Terry was introduced by the state.

"I arrested Alex Carr," said he, "for shooting Mr. King. I saw Bailey at the time. When I saw Bailey, I said: 'Here's a man that can save him. Then he said: 'He did it in self-defense; King shot first.'"

"While Terry was giving in this testimony, Bailey leaned forward anxiously and appeared to be trying to catch every word. There was a sneering smile on his face as if he were trying to get the impression that he didn't believe one word of Terry's story, and that it was not to be credited."

"Did Carr say anything?" asked Solicitor Hill.

"Yes," said Carr. "It was justifiable, and I am not sorry for it."

"Did Carr look like he knew what he was about?" asked Mr. Arnold.

"Yes," replied the witness, "he did."

"Carr didn't seem to realize that he had shot a man, did he?"

"He told me that he had shot H. O. King. I asked him if he had killed him. He replied, 'I don't know, but I hope I have.'"

"I mean did Carr seem to realize what it meant to kill a man?" asked Mr. Arnold.

"He looked a little excited."

"Didn't you talk to Mr. Sanders about Carr?"

"I don't know Mr. Sanders."

"Didn't you tell him out in the hall that Carr didn't look like a responsible party?"

"No, I did not."

Sold Cartridges to Carr.

Mr. J. T. Williams, of the Clark Hardware Company, was the next witness. He said that he remembered the day of the shooting of King. He said that Bailey and Alex Carr were in the hardware store on the day of the shooting, and that Carr had bought ten cents worth of cartridges from him. He pointed out both Carr and Bailey.

"Did you see the pistol?" asked the solicitor.

"Yes."

Solicitor Hill produced a pistol and asked the witness if he could identify it. Mr. Williams said that it looked like the same pistol, but he could not be positive in the identification.

Mr. Williams said that Carr wanted to put the cartridges in the pistol in the store, but he wouldn't let him. Carr told him he was going to the river to kill snakes. He said he would bring me the damndest snake I ever saw. Witness thought that Carr was drinking. There were four men in the party, but witness was unable to identify the fourth one as John Carr.

An Hour Before the Killing.

The witness Joe Reynolds, of 86 Woodward avenue, was an important witness for the state. He was called by the solicitor and the conversation between the three men—Bailey, Alex Carr and John Carr.

"All three of the men were at Wallace's saloon at No. 8 North Broad street. I heard them talking. Alex Carr said that he was going to kill a King snake; that it would be the biggest I ever saw. He said that they were going to put it on an exhibit in Atlanta where everybody could see it. They also said they were going to the Savannah swamp. I do not know whether they left together or not. I left first."

"How long was it before the shooting occurred?" asked the solicitor.

"About an hour."

"Could you understand what Carr meant by killing a snake?" asked Mr. Arnold.

"No, I didn't know what he meant."

"Did you see his pistol?"

"Yes, he pulled back his coat and asked me if I thought it would kill the snake."

"His pistol was in plain sight in his vest pocket, wasn't it?"

"Yes, I could see it plainly."

On the redirect examination Solicitor Hill asked the witness if he didn't see the pistol when Carr pulled back his coat. The witness said that he did and also said that he did not see the pistol until the cost was pulled back.

Saw Them Leave Together.

G. W. Walton, the state's witness next put up, was in the saloon. He testified that he was in Wallace's saloon when the two Carrs and Bailey walked in. He said that it was in the early afternoon. They came in, according to this witness, and stood talking and finally went out together. Witness thought it was not much longer than thirty minutes before he heard of the shooting of King by Carr.

Mr. Arnold did not cross-examine this witness, as none of the conversation was given by him.

Proof That Carr Could Write.

The state then called Mr. R. B. Blackburn, the attorney, and his testimony was in the nature of a surprise. The defense had contended all along that Alex Carr was unable to read or write, and it was calculated to surprise the court when a document with his signature attached was brought into court.

"I have known Mr. Alex Carr several years," said Mr. Blackburn. "I remember when the killing of King occurred. Carr was in my office a few weeks before the killing."

The witness then shown an affidavit with a signature attached. It was that of A. Carr.

"Whose signature is attached to that affidavit?" asked Solicitor Hill.

"That is the signature of Mr. Alex Carr. He signed it in my presence."

"Do you know whether he could read?" asked Mr. Arnold. Mr. Blackburn did not.

"Do you know whether or not he could write anything besides his name?" Mr. Blackburn did not.

"Do you ever hear of people who could sign their names and yet could not read or write?" Mr. Blackburn never had.

Mr. L. Y. Sawtell Testifies.

Mr. L. Y. Sawtell testified following Mr. Blackburn. He said that he knew John Carr and Alex Carr and B. E. Bailey and had seen them together in the morning. They had, in fact, come to his office and asked about money due them. Mr. Sawtell didn't believe that there was anything wrong with Alex Carr at that time. John Carr, however, appeared to be drinking on that morning.

Dr. J. B. Baird Tells of Carr.

In answer to the usual preliminary questions, Dr. Baird stated that he was a practicing physician and had practiced for twenty-two years; he had been on the board of health seventeen years, and was at present president of a local medical society. He stated that he visited Carr in company with Dr. Jarnigan and Knott.

"Tell how you found him, doctor," said Solicitor Hill.

"We visited Carr on the 19th of the present month," said Dr. Baird. "I found him in a very good physical condition, well nourished, not emaciated; pulse a little quick, but not abnormal; respiration quite rapid, but not more than ordinarily might be expected. His refusal to speak was the main feature. The result of this refusal was not an inability to talk. I am sure that it was not the result of not understanding. He obeyed orders and answered questions."

"What do you think of his condition, doctor?" asked the solicitor.

"He is not laboring under insanity," was the reply.

Cross-Examination of Dr. Baird.

"You know nothing of his previous history, doctor?" questioned Mr. Arnold.

"I inquired of his brother, John Carr, of Leawee, Bell, Weaver and those about the jail most likely to be acquainted with him and his movements."

"How do you know, doctor, that he understood your questions?"

"Because he showed emotional disturbance."

"Dr. Knott said he showed no excitement," suggested Mr. Arnold.

"I said emotional disturbance, and not emotional excitement."

"What difference is there, doctor, between emotional disturbance and emotional excitement?"

"The difference of degree."

"Well, doctor, give some other reason of thinking why he understood your questions."

"He moved from the chair under directions and followed the jailer to his cell, where he sat on the bed in a dark corner. When requested to take a chair in the light he did so."

"It doesn't take much sense to do that, does it, doctor?"

"No, not much."

"The fact that he can do a few things, that he has a little sense left, is no sign he is not suffering from dementia, is it?"

"It does not indicate an absence of dementia."

"Doesn't it follow acute mania?"

"Yes, it is a secondary stage."

Here Mr. Arnold exhibited to Dr. Baird a number of books and asked the doctor if he was the author of some of them.

"I have moved from the chair under directions and followed the jailer to his cell, where he sat on the bed in a dark corner. When requested to take a chair in the light he did so."

—Captain J. W. Culpepper, the ballist of Justice Landrum's court, who was painfully injured in a personal encounter with Police Officer George Hamilton last Saturday, is improving and expects to be out shortly. His injuries were such that he has been confined to his home since the difficulty. The story of the trouble appeared in last Sunday's Constitution.

—In Judge Bloodworth's court yesterday Philip Sansone, an Italian fruit vender, was arraigned on a charge of assault and battery, alleged to have been made on the person of John Coons, another Italian. Coons charged that Sansone put him into a store forcibly and assaulted him while doing so, but Judge Bloodworth decided that the charge was not proven and dismissed the case.

—John Terrell, a negro cook, was convicted before Justice of the Peace S. H. Landrum yesterday on a charge of larceny from the house. It was alleged that he had stolen a coat and vest from a District street merchant. Terrell waived a preliminary examination and was remanded to jail to await trial by the city criminal court.

—Night before last burglars entered the residence of Mr. J. K. Gordon, at 317 Howard street, and succeeded in getting away with quite a number of pieces of jewelry and some money. The burglars entered the house through the kitchen, one of the windows having been left unfastened by the servants. The family was not aroused by the work of the thieves and nothing was known of it until yesterday morning, when some of the articles were missed.

—Howard Ford, a negro man who has been on the back stand for a number of years, died yesterday at his home on Woodward avenue after an illness of two or three weeks. Ford had been driving for years and was well known to the patrons of the back line, and was well liked. He was about forty years of age and was an industrious negro, worthy of the respect he received.

—Miss Lena Williamsen, a young lady who lives at her home on Columbus street, reported to Detective Bill Jones the loss of a fine gold watch. The young lady reached the city about noon on the Central train, and immediately after leaving the depot discovered that her watch was gone. She does not know just where she lost it, but thinks it was in her belt as she left her home. She was carrying the watch in a small black line, and was well liked. He was about forty years of age and was an industrious negro, worthy of the respect he received.

BIG HOTEL PROPOSED

Mr. Bacon Proposes to Erect a Five Hundred Room Hotel.

WILL BE NEAR THE PARK

Mr. Frank Rice Proposes a Tower of Babel. Yesterday's Happenings at Exposition Headquarters.

Yesterday at exposition headquarters as what President Collier calls a "newsy" day.

A number of important things which comprise great results for the exposition happened during the day in the shape of suggestions, propositions, applications and visitations. Among the more important were:

An elegant 500-room hotel adjacent to the exposition park, proposed by Mr. D. C. Bacon.

Excavation through Mr. J. W. Scott, of the Chicago Herald, from the world's fair advisory board to the executive board of the Atlanta exposition to meet the former board in Chicago to confer, exchange ideas and discuss expositions in general.

A scheme for a striking and distinctive feature for the exposition—a tower of Babel proposed by Mr. Frank P. Rice.

News to the effect that Chief Joyner has met with great success in his mission to the east, and that he will bring to the exposition the finest exhibit of fire supplies ever shown in this country.

Invitations were sent out to two foreign nations to participate in the Atlanta exposition.

Altogether it was a busy day around exposition headquarters.

For a Five-Hundred Room Hotel.

Mr. Martin Amoroso made a highly important announcement to the executive board at the meeting yesterday morning.

It was that his business partner, Mr. D. C. Bacon, had proposed to erect a splendid 500-room hotel adjoining the exposition grounds, provided he could get a lease for the structure when finished.

Mr. Bacon owns some very valuable land adjacent to the exposition park and he proposes to utilize it in this progressive way.

He has perceived the need of enlarged hotel facilities and believes that capital invested so as to meet this want will pay well.

Mr. Amoroso is strongly inclined to favor the project, and will do all he can to encourage it. His announcement of it was good news to the exposition management.

Each of the directors will do all in his power to see it accomplished.

Mr. Rice's Scheme.

Out of the multitude of schemes daily presented to the department of privileges and concessions the Cotton States and International exposition is about to evolve a distinctive feature which will eclipse even the tower of Babel.

All sorts of mechanical devices have been suggested, but it remained for a member of the executive committee to suggest the thing of ideas. It is nothing less than a tower of Babel, to cover forty acres, and to be an exact copy so far as historical accuracy can be ascertained and followed, of the original tower of Babel.

The original tower of Babel covered forty acres and was about 2,000 feet high. It is needless to say that such a structure would eclipse anything since the pyramids and would be a latter day addition to the original seven wonders of the world.

Curiously enough, another obstacle to the enterprise will be one of religion. The suggestion is made by Mr. Frank Rice, it is feared that an attempt to rebuild the tower of Babel would be frowned upon by the stern disciplinarians of the church and Mr. Rice may come to grief.

The idea is dazzling enough to attract attention, and it is possible that it may take shape in some practical form.

Invitations were sent out yesterday to the rulers of Roumania and Serbia as follows:

His Majesty, Alex., the First King of Serbia, Greeting—The Cotton States and International Exposition Company, of Atlanta, Ga., United States of America, extends cordial invitation to the kingdom of Serbia to be represented with the United States of America at the international exposition to be held at Atlanta during the months of September, October, November and December, 1894.

Under the new system of reduced tariff duties just adopted by the United States we feel there is abundant opportunity for the establishment of closer trade relations between the United States and European countries.

By act of congress of the United States our government joins in the effort to strengthen the commercial ties between our people and yours.

It is our hope to be honored with an exhibit from your country, and we extend you assurance of our earnest cooperation in any effort to make a fitting display of the vast resources of your people.

J. R. LEWIS, Secretary.

A letter was received at exposition headquarters yesterday from Mr. Reyna Barco, of Guatemala, in answer to an invitation to that country to be represented at the Atlanta exposition by an exhibit. He writes that his country would certainly be represented by an exhibit but for the fact that it is proposed to hold the exposition on land for which governmental appropriation has already been made.

Chief Joyner's Work.

Encouraging reports come from Cap Joyner, who is in the east arranging for the fire supply men. In a long article about his work, Fire and Water, the organ of the firemen, says:

"The idea suggested itself to Chief Joyner of adding a fire supply exhibit, and he has been energetically at work in securing all the manufacturers of fire apparatus, hose and appliances to have their goods represented during the week that the exposition is open to the public. No better man could have undertaken this work, as he is so well known to all the fire supply people throughout the country, and it is safe to assume that his project will be eminently satisfactory."

The benefit to be derived from an exhibit of fire appliances at such an enormous exposition as that to be held at Atlanta cannot be overestimated, and it is only reasonable to expect that the exhibit in this special line will be amply repaid for any display which they may make.

Chief Joyner proposes to have a special building exclusively devoted to the manufacturers of fire supplies. It will be about 500 feet long and comprise besides the space set apart for exhibitors a fire station, at which a number of men will be on duty to protect the buildings from fire as well as to look after the articles on exhibition.

Already several have been secured to send displays, and the Gamewell Fire Alarm Company has agreed to equip all the buildings with its fire alarm system.

"Another, and also very attractive feature, is proposed in connection with the exposition, namely, to hold a fire tournament immediately after the convention of the National Association of Fire Engineers, which will take place in Atlanta, commencing the first Tuesday in October. It is in the hands of the fire companies from all the big cities near Atlanta to compete for the prizes offered.

The Virginia and North Carolina associations have already promised to be represented at the tournament with several teams.

Mr. Joyner proposes to bring a large delegation of the fire engineers from Augusta on a special train free, so that they can be present at the exposition and the subsequent tournament. There is no doubt that the programme being arranged by the chief of the successful, and we heartily endorse the efforts which he is now making for a complete and attractive exhibit of fire apparatus. The convention being held at both Augusta and the cotton exhibit. These exhibits will cover the whole of the south and visitors from all parts of the country will be present at the exposition."

Weather Forecast for Georgia Today—The Bulletin in Detail.

From the reports received by the weather bureau last night it was seen that the barometric pressure was highest over the Florida peninsula and from that point northward the pressure steadily diminished and centered in a low area over western New York. This low area has caused general cloudiness and precipitation in the lake region. In the northwest a second low area has made its appearance, causing cloudiness and rain in that section. In the south and southeast the weather was perfectly clear and dry with slightly warmer temperatures. The past month was characterized by clear and beautiful weather. Out of the thirty-one days twenty-five were clear, four were partly cloudy, five were cloudy and there were only five days upon which rain fell. However, when the rain did occur it was sufficiently heavy to put the total for the month slightly in excess of the normal, while the mean temperature for the month was just 2 degrees below the normal. The highest temperature during October was 85 degrees and the lowest 41 degrees.

For Georgia today—Fair, slightly warmer.

THE FINEST FRUITS.

A Large Shipment of California Fruits for Sale Today and Tomorrow.

Mr. T. F. McGeehan, the popular retail fruit dealer, corner of bridge and North Broad street, next door to the Lint & Loveland Combines Company, has just received a selection of the finest California fruits ever brought to Atlanta. The shipment consists of peaches, pears, grapes, prunes and other fruits. Mr. McGeehan also received a consignment of New York Concord grapes yesterday. All this fruit will be on sale today and tomorrow at reduced prices. It must be remembered that he retails his fine fruits at wholesale prices and is therefore able to pass on the savings to his customers. He has the finest of everything in the fruit line at such reasonable figures. Call on him and send your order today to him at northwest corner of the bridge and North Broad street.

PROHIBITIONISTS TONIGHT.

Will Hold Their Regular Monthly Meeting in Their Hall.

The Atlanta Prohibition Club will hold its regular monthly session tonight at the hall, No. 119 1/2 Whitehall street.

The membership of the organization is very large and it comprises some of the most prominent leaders of the prohibition cause. The club meets only once a month, and the attendance is usually large, which the officers desire to be the case tonight, as business of importance will be acted upon.

A GREAT TEACHER.

Mme. Pauline Bredell-Duerr Opens Her School of Vocal Culture and Song in the Grand.

Mme. Pauline Bredell-Duerr, who opens her school of voice culture and song in the Grand this morning, is a full course graduate of the Neuen Academie der Tonkunst in Berlin, and while there studied vocal culture under Dr. Gustav Engel, Mme. Viardot Garcia and Professor Julius Schaefer. She was also a fellow student with Philip and Xavier Schwarzwald, Morris Moszkowski, Nicoda, Fraunhofer, Aus der Ahe and Miss Rennert under Theodore Kulak, Dr. Breslau and Capelmestre Richard Waser.

Certainly with such advantages as these Mme. Bredell-Duerr is capable of judging a fine piano, and we take pleasure in stating that she has selected for her use a Conover Grand piano, preferring this make on account of its beautiful tone and action and its peculiar adaptability for accompanying the human voice, thereby confirming the high praise given the Conover pianos by the great artists of the world. The piano will be found in the warehouse of the Freyer & Bradley Music Company, W. W. Crocker, manager, No. 2 Peachtree street.

A NEW DANGER.

A great danger threatens the people of the South. Liver Medicines, called by all sorts of names, are being sold to the druggist to be handed to the people when they call for Simmons Liver Regulator. Beware! Take nothing else. The person who tries to persuade you that anything else is just the same is not to be relied upon, nor is the dealer to be trusted who tries to sell you another article in its stead. You know what Simmons Liver Regulator is. Don't be deceived into trying anything else. Remember, Simmons Liver Regulator is put up only by J. H. Zeilin & Co., and a Red Z is on every package.

Washington, 28 Per Cent in Four Weeks.

Pittsburg, 40 Per Cent in Seven Weeks.

Allegheny, 55 Per Cent in Seven Weeks.

Cleveland, 33 Per Cent in Four Weeks.

Philadelphia, 40 Per Cent in Four Weeks.

Buffalo, 22 Per Cent in Two Weeks.

Boston, 28 Per Cent in Three Weeks.

Baltimore, 34 Per Cent in Six Weeks.

St. Louis, 37 Per Cent in Four Weeks.

Cincinnati, 33 Per Cent in Eight Weeks.

New York, 20 Per Cent in Five Weeks.

Atlanta, One of the Healthiest Cities in the Union Today.

"I will reduce the death rate in this city by the use of my remedies," said Professor Munyon. This remark was received with credulous smiles by all who heard it. But beginning from the day when he distributed 10,000 vials of his little pellets free, the decrease in the death rate and the number of cures reported has been so rapid that the most skeptical confess their surprise and astonishment at the quick results obtained from these wonderful remedies.

The death rate in this city shows a marked decrease since Professor Munyon first introduced his remedies here, and as they become more universally used he expects that this will be reduced at least 40 per cent. Statistics from other cities demonstrate that the death rate has decreased as the sale of Munyon's Remedies increased. Thus in Boston it was reduced 28 per cent, New York 29 per cent, Pittsburgh 40 per cent, Philadelphia 40 per cent, Washington 28 per cent, Baltimore 34 per cent, Cleveland 33 per cent and St. Louis, Cincinnati and Detroit nearly 40 per cent.

The most convincing proof of the value of Munyon's remedies is shown by the enthusiasm of patients who have been cured of rheumatism, in its worst form, catarrh, dyspepsia, kidney and liver complaints and all forms of nervous disorders. The prices of Professor Munyon's remedies are mostly 25 cents and can be had of all druggists.

AT ST. MARY'S.

How the Children Are Cared for in New York City.

MRS. BLACK TELLS OF HER RECENT TRIP

The Endowment of Memorial Cots a Feature of the Institution—The Operation of the Hospital Described.

Mrs. Nellie P. Black has just returned from a short visit to New York City. As the chairman of the executive committee of the Grady Hospital Association, the object of her visit to New York was to inspect the hospitals of that city, especially those devoted to the care of children, and to make a special report to the association concerning the information thus gathered. Mrs. Black was specially fitted for this commission. She has taken a deep interest in the movement to establish a children's ward in connection with the Grady hospital, and has devoted her time and energies to that undertaking from its very inception. She originated the idea of calling upon the children of the public schools to aid in the work, and they have contributed already a large sum of money to the fund.

During her recent trip Mrs. Black visited the St. Mary's Free Hospital for children, at Nos. 405, 407 and 409 West Thirty-fourth street. This is one of the most successful institutions of the kind in the country, the object of the hospital being the care and the medical and surgical treatment of sick, maimed and crippled children.

It is under the supervision of the bishop of New York, and is managed by the Protestant Sisterhood of St. Mary. "My visit to New York was a very pleasant one," said Mrs. Black, "especially my visit to the St. Mary's Free hospital. I was specially impressed by the bright, cheerful, happy faces of the children and the beauty of their surroundings. It seemed that my own ideal of a hospital was fully realized as I inspected the building and found everything in perfect order. The appearance of the interior of the building was simply immaculate. There was not a particle of dust in any of the rooms, nor a soil of any kind to be observed. Every little bed was provided with a table, and a lot of playthings. The floors were covered with white tiling and a wainscoting of pure white marble embroidered the room. The beds were all of iron, exquisitely enameled and the tables were covered with solid glass and supported by an iron structure. The furniture was all of the best pattern and everything was expressed in the emblem of purity. Plats occupied the windows and exhaled a delightful fragrance upon the atmosphere. Beautiful pictures of every kind ornamented the walls and the views and objects represented were such as to appeal to a child's appreciative sense. Between each cot was a brass tablet, and on this tablet was inscribed the name of the donor. The hospital is partially sustained by a $100,000 legacy."

"What endowment is necessary to sustain a cot in the hospital?" the question was asked. Five thousand dollars. This, however, endows the cot perpetually. In the Grady hospital the amount is fixed at $100, the idea being merely to provide the cot and not to sustain it from this fund. Children taken to the hospital are cared for and operated upon free of charge. Disconnected from the main building a number of isolated rooms are reserved for scarlet fever and the contagious diseases among children. A splendid laundry is one of the features of the hospital. The building is six feet high and is a model of ornamental and durable architecture. The garden and yards surrounding the hospital are charmingly embellished with plants and flowers and the lawn is a beautiful carpet of green on which the children are permitted to play at such times as the overseers deem proper, the health and improvement of the children being considered. The endowment beds of the hospital presented a very interesting study to me, and in my opinion they embodied the deepest and tenderest sentiment displayed throughout the building. It was a beautiful way, I thought, to honor the loved ones of our household and served a purpose far better than costly marble that merely endured without making the world any better. Such memorials as these cots would outlive any monument of stone and to those in heaven they would breathe a far sweeter incense of love and affection than any marble cenotaph that could be erected. I hope to see this a prominent feature of the Grady hospital."

Mr. Black also visited the Postgraduate hospital on Third avenue and made a thorough inspection of that institution. "How cots may be endowed," If any one desires to endow a cot in honor of a deceased child or some departed member of the household, they can do so at the small cost of $100. For the name of any child or number of children will be inscribed on a tablet on the wall. Five dollars is the cost of honorary membership in the association.

EXECUTOR'S SALE

Choice Central and Sub-urban City Property

John G. Reynolds' Estate.

GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY.—By virtue of authority in me vested as executor of the last will and testament of John G. Reynolds, deceased, on the first Tuesday in November, 1894, on November 6th, next, before the courthouse door in said county, at the place and during the legal hours of public sale, I shall offer and expose to sale, at public outcry to the highest and best bidder, the following described parcels of land and property of the estate of my said testator, to-wit:

1. That certain centrally located city lot with valuable buildings and improvements thereon, the same being but about two blocks from the Equitable building and a block north from Edgewood avenue in the city of Atlanta, situated on the southwest corner of the intersection of said Auburn avenue (formerly Wheat St.), fronting eighty (80) feet on the west side of Courtland street, and one hundred and west-four and one-half (24 1/2) feet on the south side of Auburn avenue.

On the east half of which said corner lot, there is a substantial, elegant, two-story dwelling building with basement story underneath the rear and with modern city conveniences and together with a substantial brick building adjoining in rear—both having thereunder another basement room opening on a level with separate, brick-paved, back yard passage to Courtland street.

The west half of the aforesaid lot fronts on Auburn avenue; and not being occupied by any of the aforesaid buildings, being but four of five blocks from the center of the city of Atlanta and in an excellent neighborhood, is well adapted for the erection thereof of another handsome residence building on the corner, or for the erection of business buildings so popular and so much in demand in like central residence portions of our rapidly growing city.

2. Also, at the same time and place, for sale, that certain other handsome residence lot at Edgewood fronting on Belmont avenue eighty (80) feet and running back southwardly to Hanover street two hundred and fifty-six (256) feet, the same being outside of and near the corporate limits of the city of Atlanta situated south of the Georgia railroad right of way, within six hundred feet of Edgewood avenue and immediately opposite the point where Waverly Way of Inman Park intersects with Decatur road, (Belmont avenue and Decatur road being sections of what might be termed the same street, the one adjoining and being parallel to the other, and the other adjoining and being parallel to the north line of the Georgia railroad right of way). Said last mentioned residence lot is the same property as was conveyed by Mrs. Lizzie H. Robinson, formerly Lizzie H. Alexander, to said John G. Reynolds by deed of November 1, 1894, recorded in Fulton county deed book 24, page 164. This beautiful lot lies well in front on Belmont avenue is above the level of the Inman Park lots and commands a view over the same.

Terms of sale for each parcel advertised, one-third cash, to be paid in four months and one-third in 8 months from date of sale, with interest at 8 percent on deferred payments, payable before due at option of purchaser. Said property is offered for sale to raise money to be paid on claims of the widow of said deceased and upon debts of said estate. Titles are unimpeachable and to be conveyed or passed to purchaser upon compliance with terms of sale, directed of the executor all means of examination both as to property and title. JOHN G. WALKER, Executor, 34 1/2 South Pryor Street, Atlanta, Ga.

The Fair Way.

After you get 'em home—that's a critical moment in the clothes question.

Do they look as well as you thought? Are they all wool, after all? Will the buttons come off tomorrow? Or the pockets pull out? Do they really fit well enough? You'll think of several things like that—and you'll examine critically.

Try it with our children's clothing.

Try it with our Men's Fall Overcoats at $12 to $32. Or the winter weight Overcoats at $10 to $50—it's almost cold enough for them.

Try it with anything we have. Leave your money with us and take the goods on probation. We don't want the money if you don't want the goods.

CAN SEE THE LAW CLEARLY!

That is the way Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy makes you feel. Dyspepsia is the cuttlefish of diseases, and fastens itself on the human system, sucking out the life-blood. That should be stopped. Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy will do it. Here is the proof:

Atlanta, March 14, 1894. I have used and am now using Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy. It is a mental as well as a physical elixir. With its aid and a pair of spectacles I can frequently see the law in spite of unsuitable or too much diet. L. E. BLICKLEY, Ex-Judge Supreme Court of Georgia.

This is indisputable evidence of Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy. Disease of some kind is fastening itself on you. Nine cases out of ten are due to dyspepsia, and a few doses of this great remedy will put the stomach in perfect condition and make you well.
